IMPORTANT FROM SPRINGFIELD.

More Indications from the President Elect.

What Mr. Lincoln's Organ Says of Mr. Bell's Letter,

Our Springfield Correspondence. SPRINGPINID, Dec. 12, 1860. A Significant Hint—Secession and the Cabinet—John Bell-Peaceable Disunion Impossible—Mob Law in the South-Frank P. Blair, Jr., dc.

For the sake of comment, I repeat the following para-raph, published at the head of the editorial columns of this morning's Journal (Mr. Lincoln's recognized organ), and embodied in the special despatch sent to the Herald this afternoon. As stated in the despatch, "it is known to have emanated directly from the President elect," and

CARREST QUEENSS.

We see such frequent allusions to a supposed purpose in the part of Mr. Lincoln to call into his Cabinet two or hree Southern gentlemen from the parties opposed to impolitically that we are prompted to ask a few questions.—

1: Is it known that any such gentleman of character would accept a place in the Cabinot?

2: If yea, on what terms does he surrender to Mr. Lincoln or Mr. Lincoln to him on the political differences between them? Or will they enter upon the administration in open opposition to each other?

These "Cabinet queries" appear to convey nothing more nor less than a decided hint to the effect, that—

1. The willingness of these "two or three Southern nen" referred to to accept seats in the Cabinet of the President elect is doubted. 2. R is feared that "any such gentleman of character" (mark the qualification) might take such an offer from a decided political opponent as an insult, it implying a supposition of their willingness to "modify principles for

3. That a mutual adaptation of principles is considered the condition rine qua non of administrative co-operation.

4. That Mr. Lincoln, at least, is indisposed to adapt his views to those of the members of his Cabinet.

Some of the readers will doubtlessly look upon this analysis as implying a broad and unmistakeable intimation that there is little probability of any representation of the Southern States in the Cabinet of the President elect, and that the meaning of the above semi-official insive intentions on his part. But it will be seen that only "two or three Southern gentlemen" are alluded to, while at least a dozen names from that section of the country have been connected with the Cabinet. My information warrants me, indeed, in stating that these queries are only intended as feelers, and should be simply looked upon as indicative of the delicacy felt by Mr. Lincoln at making propositions to open and ancient adversaries of

John Bell's last letter did not improve his chances of being offered a seat, as its accusatory tone towards the North is not considered balanced by the subsequent antidisunion sentiments. He may be looked upon as fairly

To-day some of the oldest and most intimate friends of Mr. Lincoln gave it as their deliberate opinion in the course of a conversation during their usual rendezvous in one of the State offices, that peaceable secession was a matter of absolute impossibility. Their views were ed in such a manner, as to convey the idea that they were the reflections of similar convictions in higher quarters. It was asserted that even though coercion were not employed by the federal government, a conflict would be made inevitable by the improbability of an agreement upon th erms of the separation between the two sections of the ession and civil war were evidently thought contemporaneous contingencies by the parties in question couted with much vehemence; although aggression was deprecated, collision was confidently predicted.

thern mobs upon quiet, conservative and inoffen who had attempted to give their personal attention to usiness matters in New Orleans and other points, were being substantiated by the most positive evispee, he took no pains to conceal his indignation at these rbitrary and altogether groundless persecutions, which eveals a despotism werse than ever practised in Russia, even in the palmiest days of Nicholas I.

He pro nounces the idea of a peaceable secession preposterous 'The Northwestern States," he says, "cannot and will not allow the building up of a 'foreign Power' on each side of the main artery of their commerce-the Lower Mississippi'-nor submit to an interruption of the free navigation of that river."

Frank has pluck evidently. He means what he says. He knows no dodging or blinking. But I doubt that his "cagerness for the fray" was properly responded to by the powers that are to be. His martial disposition might be taken as a qualification for the Secretaryship of the War Department. Stranger things have happened.

PERSONAL REMINISCENCE.

It is not generally known, says the Occeptan (Va.)
Courier, that the early years of Abraham Lincoln were mostly spent in Virginia. From sixteen to eighteen he attended Charles Tackett's school, then a fiourishing institution in Stafford county. The Hon. John L. Taylor, of Ohio; Harvey B. Raits and Meredith Eskridge, were among his classmates. The latter gentleman remembers him well, and speaks of him as a youth of great promise, strict integrity and untiring industry, but of quick temper. Subsequently he taught school, and studied law during the while, at Jeffersonton, Culpepper county, and boarded with old Mr. Luckett, who kept the village inn. Titus, an old negro (still airve), was his body servant, and speaks of "Marster Linkum" as a "ra'al gem'n." A place on the Rappalasnock, shaded by large beech trees, and hear the old race track, is still known as "Linkum's Hole." He lived two years at Jeffersonton. Mr. Caleb Burnly succeeded him in his school.

The most noticeable fact that has occurred here in connection with the new regime, within the last few days, is the rapid succession of semi-official statements in reference to public matters, and even in the Daily Sournal of this place-the central organ of the republi cans of this State, and now the recognized mouthpiece of the President elect. Present appearances warrant, indeed, the inference that it will henceforth be made the regular vehicle of the thoughts, wishes and plans of the "powers that are to be."

from the organ in question bearing upon the drawback-to the selection of representatives of the South for Mr Lincoln's Cabinet. To-day I subjoin some no less signifi-cant strictures upon John Bell's last letter, also taken from this morning's Journal. They contirm all I said upon the same subject in my last :-

same subject in my last.—

Bon. John Bell has written a long and able Union letter, and we trust that it may be instrumental in allaying the disminion fever. We believe Mr. Bell to be a patriot. He disminion fever. We believe Mr. Bell to be a patriot. He disminion fever. We believe Mr. Bell to be a patriot. He disme his country, and will do what he can to presente it from dismemberment. He gives Mr. Lincoln credit for sincerity, that he has not disquised, but expressed his real sentiments. But Mr. Bell is wordely in error in regard to the designs and feelings of the republican party. Mr. Bell since the interest of the republican party, the party which clevated Abraham Lincoln to the Presidency, is the only party in this nation undivided in its support of the Union. Many who supported Mr. Bell are disunionists—a large number who supported Mr. Reck in right, and not a few who supported Mr. Bell are disunionists—a large number who supported Mr. Reck in the republican party, the control of all the many thousands who supported Mr. Lincoln there is not known to be a single man in favor of disunion—not one. We, the regulation party, love the Union, and we will peril everthing that honor to maintain it. We do not tore sharery and we do have freedom; but we will protect the South in the enjoyment of every constitutional right. The republican party makes no user upon the South—cherishes no hearty of the South.

You have sworn that if we dared to elect such a man you would desoure the Union. We have elected him, and now we want to try your little game of secoscion. Bo it, if you dare! So long as you remain in the Union peaceably and decently you shall enjoy your constitutional rights. But every man of you who attempts to subvert this Union will be hung as high as Haman. * The chivalry will eat dirt. They will back out. They never had any spunk, any how. The best they could do was to bully, brag and bluster. John Brown and his fifteen men were enough to affright the whole mighty Commonwealth of Virginis out of its propriety, and to hold it as a conquered province until recaptured by the federal troops; and to this day his ghost is more terrible than an army with banners in the eyes of every Southern cavalier. These trights of the sunny South are just such heroes as Sancho Panza was. They are wonderful hands at bragging and telling fantactical lies, but when it comes to action count them out. This piece of John Brownism was by some one headed, "From the Chicago Democrat—Lincoln's home organ"—and reprinted in the form of a circuiar, of which thousands of copies were disseminated in several Southern sands of copies were disseminated in several Southern States. Some of the circulars are said to have been sent to Mr. Lincoln from Georgia, and hence the Journal's de monstration. It denounces this disreputable attempt to feed the disunion flame in the most bitter terms, and coln, says of him :-

He stands firmly and immovably upon the platform of the republican party, and is a believer in the principles therein enunciated. * * * We feel satisfied that he will do his duty fearlessly in any emergency that may arise; but he will do it with a constant regard to all the rights guaranteed to the several States by the constitution.

The strangest part of the article is the passage by which a direct intimation is conveyed that I A McCler.

which a direct intimation is conveyed that J. A. McGler nand, the democratic member of Congress from this district, allowed his frank to be used for the distribution of the incendiary circulars in the South. Your Washington correspondents had better keep an eye on the present movements of Senator Trumbull and N. B. Judd, the chairman of the Republican Central Comnittee of this State, who is at present sojourning in th federal capital. They are both known here to be engaged in "surveying planks for the Cabinet," and to be in daily correspondence on the subject with the President elect.

Letters of a late date, the 20th of November, from the nost reliable authority, have been received here from Zacatecas and Ciudad Victoria, Mexico, which state that the country was quiet and that the people universally were returning to their peaceful industrial pursuits. Some hundred thousand dollars worth of arms, pur-chased in New York a year ago by Colonel Carlos had arrived and were to be forwarded immediately to the Liberal army beseiging the city of Mexico.

The people everywhere on the frontier were looking with confidence to the early and complete subjugation of the church party and the final establishment of peace.

Operatic and Dramatic Matters. The latest operatic experiment has been nipped in the bud, and at a distressingly early period. Four performances were given last week, two of "La Figlia del Reggimento," one of "Stradella" and one of "Robert le Diable." The receipts fell far below the expenses, and the artists have been compelled to retire from the field. The only hope for Opera this winter depends upon the Italian company headed by Muzio. They closed their Philadelphia season last Saturday night, with a performance of "Moses in Egyps," for the benefit of Erignoli. This Opera was produced on Friday, with Colson.

Yankee prima donna in the following terms:—
This prima donna appeared last night as the Queen in "Semiramide." This is the role in which the lamented Henrietta Sontag took leave of the stage and public of Berlin, and Signora Lorini must think it no light praise when we aver that in her singing and acting she nearly, and in some portions of the Opera quite, equalled that idol of the Berlin public. Signora Lorini possesses a voice of wonderful compass and rare flexibility. In the air "Bel raggio lusingshier" (one of the most beautiful ever written by Rossin), also in the duet and throne seene, she completely electrified the audience. She was several times called before the curtain amidst showers of bouquets. In short, her success was the most complete and perfect of any singer since the days of the divine Sontag.

this season of the year. We do not see that the political troubles have as yet affected the prosperity of places of public amusement. In such case the Bowery theatres would be the first to suffer, but the business both at the New Bowery, where equestrian dramas are the order of the day, and at the old place, where Spalding & Ro gers' circus still holds out, has been exceedingly good. Mr. Booth has drawn well at the Winter Garden and the Forrest nights at Niblo's have been as attractive as ever. "The Seven Sisters" still remains in the bills at Laura Keepe's-the best proof of its success. The pub lic was not particularly pleased with "A Model Hypo-crite," and Wallack's audiences have consequently fallen off. For this week sundry changes will be made in the bills. Mr. Forrest plays Richard III. on this evening. Mr. Booth commences to-night the last week of his engagement, playing in "Hamlet." On Wednesday, Romeo, with a debutante as Juliet. Mr. Wal-lack announces for this evening Mrs. Inchbaid's comedy "To Marry or not to Marry." The play has been com pressed into three acts, and the principal roles allotted to Mr. Lester Wallack, Mr. Riske, Mr. Walcott, Mrs. Hoey, Miss F. Morant and Miss Mary Gannon.

At Laura Keene's theatre "The Seven Sisters" will be

This decision gives the bulk of the property (the Hyde Park property and the personal property) to the heirs, and the property in New Orleans to the husband. An appeal ha been taken by the contestands, who claim all the property under the subsequent wills. The appeal will have the preference in the General Term, Supreme Court.

Arrests for Violation of the Sunday Liquor Law.

The police seem to follow up pretty closely the liquor dealers in some of the wards, while in the majority of them they appear to have their own way. The whole matter rests with the several captains, and if they see fit t-keep a close watch on the liquor stores in these ward there wouldbe over five hundred arrested every Sabbath wouldbe over five hundred arrested every Sabbath yet this is not done, many of the captains seeming care very little for the several orders issued to them respecting this matter by the General Superintendent. The following is the number of arrests made throughout the city yesterday for intoxication and selling liquor, as reported to the police headquarters last night. Under a special order arrests were also made of all persons found playing games in the streets and public places:—

City Intelligence. CASUALTY AT THE METROPOLITAN GAS WORKS .- COPOD Jackman held an inquest yesterday at Bellevue Hospita upon the body of George Weir, a native of Germany aged thirty-two years, who died from the effects of a dis-location of the hip and knee joints, received while en-gaged at work at the Metropolitan Gas Works, foot of 117th street, East river, on Thursday last. Deceased re-sided at No. 227 East Eleventh street.

VEHICLE CASUALTY—A BOY KILLED.—William Mulligan. a lad about fifteen years of age, while attempting to jump on his father's cart on Thursday, missed his hold, and falling under the wheels, was so severely injured that he died yesterday in consequence, at his residence, No. 318 East Thirteenth street. Coroner Jackman held an inquest upon the body.

FATAL FALL WHILE INTOXICATED.—John Dalten, a resident of No. 552 Fourth street, fell down stairs on Friday night, while intoxicated, and was so severely injured that he died the day following in consequence. Coroner Jack-man held an inquest upon the body. Verdict, "Acciden-tal death".

Shooting Appray in East Thirty-Eighth Street.—On Saturday evening the wives of John Ruyter and John Hughes, residents of a tenement house in East Thirtyeighth street, near First avenue, became involved in a quarrel about the trifling sum of three dollars, which re-suited in Mrs. Ruyter receiving a black eye. The hussuited in Mrs. Ruyter receiving a black eye. The hus-bands of the beligerents then took up the quarrel, and Germany was coming off second best, when he drew a pistol from his pecket and sent a ball spinning into Young Ireland's leg. Hugheswas picked up by policeman Me-Bride, of the Twenty-first precinct police, and brought to the station house, where he was attended by ex-Coroner Connery. The wound was at first thought to be danger-ous, but upon examination the physician thought the chances were in favor of Hughes recovery. The ball has not yet been extracted, but it will probably be to-day. Ruyter was arrested and taken before Justice Quacken-bush, at the Jefferson Market Police Court, where he was held for examination.

FIGHT AND STABBING APPRAY IN CENTRE STRUCT .- While Official and the Section of the Committee of the Section 12 No. 28 Centre street, was endeavoring to eject a couple of drunken customers from his premises on Saturday evening, he was stabbed in the abdomen and severely wounded. The assailant, who gave his mame as Patrick Brady was taken into custody by policeman Diven, of the fifth precienct, and committed to the Tombs. Huske was conveyed to the New York Hospital.

Amortical Stabiling Case.—Frederick Scott, a negro, was brought before Justice Welsh yesterday on charge of assaulting Charles Ayros (also colored) with a knife, cut-ting him severely about the head and face. The affair happened in the Fark at a late hour on Saturday night, and the police think that robbery was the motive for the assault. Scott was committed for examination, while the complainant was sent to the House of Detention for wit-ness in White street.

LYN NAVY YARD.—The present aspect of affairs at the Brooklyn Navy Yard presents a rather gloomy and inactive appearance. The different departments have next to scaled their doors, and the cold spell which lately set in has driven nearly all that portion of laborers employed ottside of cover from further operations. Besides, has not been a penny for the last two "pays," which has greatly reduced in circumstances that portion of the poorer working class who have been solely dependent on each day's labor for the support of themselves and fami-lies. Many of them have been compelled to sell what little was due them by the government at ruinous figures, to be enabled to meet their present wants. The neighborlies. Many of them have been compelled to sell what little was due them by the government at ruinous figures, to be enabled to meet their present wants. The neighborhood around and about the yard presents more the appearance of "Goldsmith's deserted village" than anything else one can readily compare it to, such is the Sunday-like aspect which it wears. The Spanish frigate Berenguela is the only bright spot to relieve the listless monotony of the whole, the work on which is being carried on night and day. She will require numerous repairs in places where it was not anticipated previous to going in dry dock, and that, taken in connection with the damage done her by the recent explosion of powder on board, will take a longer period of time to make the necessary repairs than was first calculated on. This cold weather is almost insupportable for that portion of the crew who have been compelled to be exposed much to the inclemency of the weather. They present, some of them, a very smusing sight, being swathed up so that there is barely room for one eye to see daylight; and when satuted, their only reply as, manche free, and then dodge their head under again.

The slave bark Cora has been taken in charge by the officers of the yard, and is now iloating in ordinary. The United States storeship Relief has not yet discharged her crew. The United States prisoners which came home in her (twenty-three in number) were taken in charge by the United States Marshal on the 14th inst.

A relieving crew for the United States aloop-of-war Cyane will leave here on the steamer of the 29th inst. for Aspinwall, and from thence to Panama, where the St. Marys will be in readiness to receive them. The old crew returns by the same steamer.
